Dear Professor Buarque de Holanda,

Word has just reached us that you are visiting in the United States. We, here at the University of California, Los Angeles, would be very pleased to invite you for a visit. You will find here an active interest in Brazil. The university offers courses on Brazilian history and geography and sponsors one of the seven Portuguese language centers in this country. I am writing you now to find out if you would be interested in an invitation and when. At your convenience we will be pleased to extend the official invitation.

I hope that we of the faculty as well as the student body will have the great pleasure and honor of serving as your host in Southern California.

Very sincerely,

E. Bradford Burns
